Industry Nutrition Forum

MEMBERSHIP

The American Heart Association convenes the Industry Nutrition Forum to cultivate understanding of food system challenges, foster innovative solutions thinking, and catalyze action to improve public health. Participants include nutrition and food science leaders across food industry, academia, government and non-profit sectors. We regularly update the Industry Nutrition Forum to accelerate progress towards a food system that prioritizes sustainable nutrition for good health.

FORUM MEMBERS

- Represent a broad range of food system activities, from the farm to the point of purchase.
- Support the AHA vision of sustainable nutrition security for all.
- Engage in meaningful cross-sector dialogue to foster understanding of the implications of research, policy and communications.
- Provide thought leadership across the food system.
- Advance collaborative action on critical food system challenges and opportunities.
- Sustain the Mark Bieber Award annually for early investigators in nutrition research.

Stepping Stones for Food System Transformation

The INF engages in a collaborative process to create Stepping Stones for Food System Transformation:

- Examine current food system barriers to health, equity and sustainability.
- Prioritize challenges for which INF members and the AHA have complementary strengths and influence to contribute.
- Advance progress through dialogue, thought leadership and action.

JOIN OUR FORUM

The American Heart Association's mission is to be a relentless force for a world of longer, healthier lives. To succeed, we must collaborate with diverse stakeholders across the food system to improve sustainable nutrition security for all people and communities. Any organization or agency whose objectives align with those of the American Heart Association is eligible for membership.
